

Thriving in Uncertain Times Selling "You, Inc."

The Principled Employee

1. To acknowledge the fact that there is a system defining the world in which I work in a way that I can comply yet be flexible to adapt to changes in the system over time.
2. To be professional in all my work dealings in a way that a positive perception is created of me.
3. To work and deliver results on all my projects in a way that my performance is guided by principles and driven by passion.
4. To position myself for my desired future in a way that my performance is awarded with promotions.
